"A most beautiful little book, a real gem of a thing, a rich memento to the sainted and beloved young Tyng,"—Christian Chronicle.

"The dying charge of the lamented Dudley A. Tyng is likely to immortaize him. Everywhere, in all the churches, it is echoed and re-echoed. It has inspired much devotional feeling, and the poem so appropriately illustrated in this little volume was one of the first fruits of that feeling. The volume contains some additional poems, of no less merit than the one named, and will be acceptable to readers of every denomination."—N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.
